Blue sky thinking in Phuket

Phuket IT company Blue D Zine knew that in order to continue being successful it was going to have to create something no-one had thought of before.

So Assistant Managing Director Patima Khunpromkessara got her team together and they created Toursys – web software that allows tour operators to manage their business completely online.

“Web design is very common so we wanted to provide something better,” she said.

Toursys was recently nominated for an award in the tourism and hospitality applications category of the Thailand ICT Awards (TICTA) in Bangkok. Around 50 related companies in Thailand entered the awards and attended the corresponding expo.

The software is believed to be one of the first of its kind. It provides an organisational framework for tour operators that includes a customer database, an organiser, analysis of popular tours, accounts and financial information, and hopefully reduces simple mistakes, Ms Patima explained.

“The tourism sector is growing so there is a demand for this to bridge the gap between industry and education – we can link them. This software helps tour operators manage their daily operations better.”

The software will be officially launched at the end of this month, and so far feedback from the expo in Bangkok has been positive.

Around 15 vocational schools and universities in Thailand, including the Thalang Vocational School in Phuket, have already bought the software and have had training sessions with Ms Patima. Blue D Zine plans to hold software training sessions in Phuket in the future.
